Lost Sock Memorial Day

Celebrated annually on May 9, Lost Sock Memorial Day honors all the socks that are no longer with us. Where did they go? Is dryer lint the desecrated remains of socks? That would be the most logical explanation but, unfortunately, this is a myth.

So, how do we “celebrate” this day? Yes, there is a plan. It is time to say “good-bye” to all of the single socks, the ones where their mates have been lost to the great unknown. Where have they gone? Is there a washing machine heaven? This is a questions folks have been trying to solve for many centuries. An answer may never be found, but life will go on.

Of course, since before the dawn of Tupperware, inventors have attempted the prevention of such separation anxiety. Alas, if they had succeed, mismatched socks wouldn't be popular today & we wouldn't be pausing to remember them every May 9th.

National Lost Sock Memorial Day reminds you that it's time to move on. Let go of those lost socks. Clean out all of your left behind socks or repurpose them as sock puppets.

Now for the important stuff.

Luke 7:23 ~ "Blessed are those who are not offended by me."

- What's grandma's actual name?
- When does my social security number expire?
- My friends are almost here. Make sure Dad stays in the basement.
- You can pick me up now, just park where no one can see you.
- Don't bring homemade. We don't need to look like pilgrims.
- Please don't send Dad. I'm too tired to be embarrassed.
- Can you bring me my science homework and $300?
- Can I get lung cancer from smoked turkey?
- Can you Venmo this guy $80 for my fake ID?
- Send me a picture of your signature. Don't ask questions, please.
- Does "3 whole eggs" mean the shell, too?
- How long is the forever stamp good for?
- I'm getting abducted into the National Honor Society.
- Do you still have any cop friends?
- Is Hamlet about a pig?
- I worked three hours today. I'm totally wiped out.
- How do you get those blue VIP tags that let you park up front everywhere?
- What's a vegetative state? California?
- Where do we keep the ice?
