

GOLDEN AGERS

Celebrating Seniors, Enjoying Life & Laughter

VOLUME 10, ISSUE 42

OCTOBER 16, 2026

PSD Week

Wow! We are really grasping for things to celebrate this week. We're braking for wildlife? Ok, I get it. Dodge the big stuff. We don't want to total a car (which can happen if you hit something big). But a squirrel? When Dad taught me to drive he said, "don't you dodge a squirrel and hit a tree, or go off in a ditch. They ain't worth it. I don't want you hurt or the repair bill to fix the car." Hubby had a similar approach with our kids. In our family, we call those PSD's—Poor Squirrel Decisions. They are what they are. Human life is FAR more important than the life of a squirrel & we won't even begin to talk about the car repair costs and/or hospital fees, vs. the life of a tree rat. Yes, I realize PETA doesn't agree, but, they don't really have a valid argument in my book when it comes to squirrels.

Now for the Important Stuff...

The Week of October 18-24 is:

- Brake! For Wildlife Week
- Rodent Awareness Week
- World Cocktail Championships
- Forest Products Week
- Character Counts Week

Some celebrations only last a day:

- 18th-International Necktie Day
- Meatloaf Appreciation Day
- Chocolate Cupcake Day

19th-World Statistics Day

Evaluate Your Life Day

20th-Croc Day

Personal Chef's Day

National Fossil Day

Miss American Rose Day

International Sloth Day

21st-Conflict Resolution Day

National Witch Hazel Day

Reptile Awareness Day

Wonder Woman's Birthday

22nd-Tavern Style Pizza Day

National Tex Mex Day

Champagne Day

CAPS LOCK DAY

23rd-iPod Day

Make A Difference Day

National Mole Day

Johnny Carson's Birthday

TV Talk Show Host Day

24th-Food Day

Recycle Mercury Thermostat Day

Have a great week & call me if you need a ride to church.

Serving Him & Loving it!

Carol

803-359- 🍌 2470 or 803-360-7137

Luke 7:23 ~ "Blessed are those who are not offended by me."

Tudor-Inspired Phrases for When You Don't Want to Cook

- The feast shall not be prepared by mine hands this eve. Summon the delivery carriage.
- Send for the messenger. Tell the local tavern I require their finest fried offerings.
- Bring forth the bread and cheese. I shall not be performing culinary miracles upon this day.
- The meal I shall prepare this evening is called “whatever requireth the least effort.”
- I possess neither the strength nor the spirit to transform these humble ingredients into a banquet.
- I cannot be expected to chop vegetables when I am already battling a great weariness. Summon the delivery knight.
- Fear not, for the delivery knight approacheth upon his noble four-wheeled steed, carrying the feast that shall restore the kingdom.

heaaaaad, shoulders,

More Things That Made Me Laugh

- I remember being able to get up without sound effects. Good times.
- If a woman says, ‘do what you want’, do NOT do what you want. Stand still. Do not blink. Don’t even breathe.
- One minute you’re young and fun. The next minute, you’re turning down the car stereo so you can see better.
- You can say, “have a nice day” with no problem, but saying “enjoy the next 24 hours” sounds vaguely threatening.
- Thank you for being my friend. Questionable life choice, but I appreciate it.
- At this point, I’m convinced some people were put on the planet just to test my anger management skills.
- “Do just enough to get by.” ~ Mediocre
- If I say, “I’m fine”, that means the issue has been emotionally archived and filed under “Not Worth the Jail Time”.
- Some of y’all never read 100 books for a personal pan pizza & it shows. And some of y’all lied about it. That shows, too!
- It’s okay to disagree with me. I can’t force you to be right.
- My child asked why, when lightning strikes a corn field, it is not full of popcorn. I don’t know either.
- My wrinkles show I laughed, my gray hairs show I cared, my scars show I lived, & my belly shows I really enjoy my snacks.
- Get out there & be the surprise onion ring in somebody’s French fries today.