Corn Dog Day is Coming!

There are some days that just don't get enough love and one of those days is coming. It's Corn Dog Day, people!

When I think about corndogs, I don't think about those nasty ones we were fed in elementary school or the gross ones in the frozen food section. No! I think about, salivate over, and crave the ones made by Jerry & Sarah Richey! If you haven't had one, you don't know what you're missing. They're gourmet corndogs! Thick homemade batter. Foot long dogs on long wooden skewers. One bite and you will be transformed! On the down side, you'll never be satisfied with a corndog from anywhere else again.

Where and when can you get one of these delicious corndogs, you ask? Well, they cook them at Missions Market (but that's in the fall) & one night during VBS (but that's not until June). I'm not sure I can wait that long! Maybe we can convince them to fix them for Easter Breakfast this year. WOW! That would be fabulous!!

I know what you're thinking. Corndogs for breakfast? Don't knock it 'til you've tried it.

How Southern People Talk About Marriage

We're prepping for a wedding this weekend, so this hit close to home.

- Marriage is like having a best friend who don't remember nothing you say.
- A good marriage is just two people taking turns being the problem.
- Marriage is mostly yelling, "What?" from different rooms in the house.
- If you want to stay married, sometimes you just nod.
- Marriage is spending half your life looking for something the other person moved or misplaced.
- Every married couple has that one story they both tell very differently.
- Marriage is when she asks what you want to eat and every answer you give is wrong.
- A strong marriage is when you're both mad, but you still ask if the other one wants something from the kitchen.
- Marriage means somebody's always hot & somebody's always cold.
