Wonderful Weirdos Day

All of us are blessed with one or two wonderful weirdos in our lives. These are the folks who remind us to think outside the box, to be a little more true to ourselves. A weirdo to you, might be a person who's perfectly normal to me. But since I think normal is just a setting on the washing machine, it's not that much of a stretch. This is the week to thank them. So give them a hug & say "I love you, you big ol' weirdo!"

I don't think it's a coincidence that this day falls in the same week as school picture day. Do you? Remember the struggle of finding just the right outfit to be recorded forever in the pages of the school annual—or in my case, Mema's picture wall. Your hair had to be just so-so. The clothes had to be dressy, but not over the top. You only had one chance to get it right. There was no room for error.

Somebody was really thinking when they made Sept. 13 9x13 day. National Hollerin' Day sounds a little noisy for me today, but, bring your Tylenol and you'll probably survive. Hug Your Boss Day is almost NEVER appropriate, unless your boss is your toddler. Make Your Bed Day is every day for me, so I don't really understand this one. Oh, well.

Now for the important stuff.
