Thoughts from Pastor Cassie

Well, some might call it a correct prediction and others might call it truth. We woke up the morning of November 6th and God is still God. Jesus is still King of the Universe.

Hey, what is this sassy news article? Some kind of finger-pointing gotcha?

Nope. It's just joy. Not in who won or lost. Life is so much more than that. Life in Christ is so much more than all of that. We've got a lot of great ministry going on at St. Peter's that we want you to read about and be a part of, so I was asked to keep this article, let's say, "within a proper length".

When you read this, the current liturgical year will be coming to a close and a new one beginning. We'll celebrate Christ the King Sunday and then the Sunday after that we say our liturgical "Happy New Year" and the season of Advent begins. And the wheels on the bus go 'round and 'round. But nothing about life in the church year is boring. Through tradition, our liturgical calendar helps us each week to revisit stories, moments, and words that point us to our Savior. Every Sunday is a gift.

We're entering that precious time as we approach the coming of Christ. He enters into our world as a tiny babe in a humble barn. He comes into our hearts through the gift of faith. One day, according to God's plan, He will come again.

God is glorious and deserves all of our praise.

Merry Christmas!

Pastor Cassie

Dear Rev. Boehringer,

We are deeply grateful for your generosity. Your partnership allows us to immediately respond when disasters strike, delivering safe water solutions quickly & building long-term resilience so that communities are better prepared for future disasters.

When there is a natural or humanitarian disaster, safe water is more critical than ever. Your generosity will have a transformative impact on people's lives in dire need.

The global water crisis is enormous & urgent, but with your help, we are serving those in need and sharing the hope of God's love.

Once again, thank you for your partnership in restoring lives.

In gratitude,

Warm regards,
Dr. Brice Cockfield, Principal

NOTE OF THANKS

Y'all get to see the dozens of volunteers that serve on Sunday mornings (greeters, choir members, ushers, lectors, communion assistants, acolytes, camera operators, coffee time servers, Sunday School teachers, bereavement meal cooks, handbell players), not to mention our members who volunteer to serve on committees & pull off wonderful events for our congregation! What you may not realize is how many more serve behind the scenes to do what has to be done each and every week.
