

Flip Flop Day? In February?

In high school, our son, Jonathan wore flip flops to school EVERY DAY. Not just any dime store flip flops, but his beloved Rainbows—the brand worn by all the “cool kids” at the time. If you didn’t own any, you (like me) weren’t “cool”. When he left for college in Tennessee his dad recommended that he carry along some real shoes—you know, the kind with soles AND tops. Jonathan assured us he would have no need of such footwear since he had worn nothing but his Rainbows year-round for four years.

And then came November. The temp dropped to below freezing & the much anticipated phone call came. “Mom, can you send me some money for some shoes. My feet are freezing!” Ah, the joys of parenthood. Did I giggle? Did I say, “I told you so?” You bet I did! Parenting is not all trouble. Sometimes it’s fun!

Now on to important stuff!

GIGGLES

Remember last week's picture when we all knew trouble was coming? Well, less than 24 hours later, it came.
