Slow Week for Celebrations

All in all, it's a slow week for celebrations. Lent is beginning, so the mood is a little different, but there are a few days of note this week:

- Potato Chip Day (sounds yummy)
 - Save A Spider Day (WHY?)
 - Play the Recorder Day (only if you must)
- But I think the one I like the most this week is Get Over It Day.

There are so many people that get upset about the slightest little thing! I don't get it! The store is out of your favorite ice cream? Try something new—you might discover a new favorite. The mailman left your box open. Did it really hurt anything? Why are you raising your blood pressure over things you can't control?

I was raised to deal with adversity, not whine about it. If we said, "that's not fair," Mom's reply was always, "life's not fair." If you don't like something, do something about it or get over it. All of this whining is just too much!

There are lots of things I can't do any more. Some because I physically (or mentally) can't & some because I just don't want to do them any more. Do I sit around & whine? NO! I just get over it!

At the end of the day, do you know what I have found? Those things that used to get under my skin just don't any more. Things that used to make me mad, now make me laugh at the stupidity of it all.

Studies show that people who laugh more are just happier all around! If something upsets you, either fix it, or get over it. Remember, if you're going to laugh about it someday, then why not laugh about it today? So, get over it and laugh! You will feel much better! I promise!

Now for the important stuff.
