MARCH 20, 2026

Celebrate World Cheese Day!

Yes, it's true what you've heard about me. I am a cheese snob. There! I've said it. I don't deny it.

During 2020, I started doing a lot of online shopping—mostly for things not being stocked in our local stores. Cheese was one of these things. I found this great family-owned shop in Wisconsin with lots of wonderful flavors.

I know what you're thinking; wow, that sounds expensive. Truth is, it costs about the same and most of the time it's less. I order enough cheese at a time that I don't have to pay shipping, I get to try to cool new flavors, & I don't have to go to the grocery store after getting off work in the evenings. This company also does a great job with their cold packs & when you open the box, the sticker reads "It's a Gouda Day." 😊

Now for the Important Stuff...

Things That Used to be Normal

- The dial-up noise to get to the Internet.
- Not knowing where someone was & you just had to wait.
- Writing a check at the grocery store & everybody watching.
- Getting grounded & just disappearing for a week.
- Being bored & that was it.
- Teachers being allowed to hurt your feelings
- Not getting a trophy.
- Getting in trouble at school & getting it worse at the house.
- Waiting two weeks to see if you blinked in every picture. Having to rewind a VHS tape.
- Using printed out MapQuest directions.
- Not knowing who was calling until you answered the phone.
- I ain't gonna lie. I kinda miss it.
