

GOLDEN AGERS

Celebrating Seniors, Enjoying Life & Laughter

VOLUME 10, ISSUE 28

JULY 10, 2026

World Emoji Day is Coming!

What is an emoji? It's the little faces we add at the end of our messages (or sometimes in place of messages at all).

Why do we do this? It's a shortcut way of letting the reader know how we are actually feeling about something or can be used when there are no words. 🙏

Here are other interesting stats about emojis:

- Over 900M emojis are sent daily without text on Facebook.
- The face with tears of joy emoji has been used over two billion times.
- 86% of emoji users on Twitter are 24 or younger.
- 57% of emoji users are women.
- New emojis are released on this date each year.
- An Emojipedia began in 2014.
- Each year there are awards for the best new emoji. (The 'thinking face' beat out the 'poop' emoji in 2018.) 🤔💩

This proves with the right marketing, anything can become popular & anyone can get paid to create it.

Now for the Important Stuff...

Things That Made Me Laugh This Week

(Rules: they don't have to apply to my life, they just have to make me laugh)

- Tick me off and I'll fill your leaf blower with glitter. Your yard will look like Tinkerbell hit a landmine.
- Sometimes I think I'm reasonably intelligent, & sometimes I click the remote car lock a second or third time for extra lockiness.
- How do I get a hurricane named after me? I've been a disaster my whole life. I feel I meet the requirements.
- I think wearing two different deodorants is a brilliant idea. One under each armpit. But that's just my two scents.
- The best coworkers are the ones who you can be sarcastic with & they'll never get offended, they'll just say something twice as sarcastic back.
- When people talk about 20 years ago. I immediately think they mean the 80s, but they mean 2006, and now my knees hurt and I need a nap.
- My boss after seeing my negative drug test: so...you're just weird? 🧐
- I don't want a coffee that has "delicate notes of caramel & citrus." I want a coffee that kicks down the door to my brain, turns on all the lights, & says, "MOVE, you've got things to do!"
- Apparently, "what's up, inmates?" is not an acceptable way to greet your coworkers in the morning.
- No matter what's going on in your life, there's some form of potato that can make it better.
- I'm a delight to have as a coworker just as long as you don't mind sarcasm, singing, swearing, and constantly being distracted by random conversations.
- Therapist: What do we say to people to let them know we're welcoming them into our lives? Me: Buckle up. Therapist: No.
- I didn't mean to blurt that out, but my mouth & my brain are currently locked in a highly toxic custody battle over my vocabulary. 🗣️
- Instructor: Welcome to salsa class! Who's ready to learn to dance? Me: hiding a bag of tortilla chips...there's been a terrible misunderstanding.
- My level of daily sarcasm is directly tied to the amount of questions I am forced to answer before I finish my coffee.
- My ditsy neighbor bought a waterbed and said it was more bouncy than he expected. I asked if he knew why. He said, "I'm guessing it's because I filled it with spring water." 🙄
- I prefer hanging out with crazy people, as long as they know they're crazy. It's the ones that think they're sane that are a problem.
- Doctor: you just need to eat better and exercise & you'll start feeling better. 🙄
Me: so, it's terminal.
- I'm mature but not mature-mature. Like I pay my own bills but I still whisper righty tighty lefty loosey when I need to figure things out.
- Some people are a breath of fresh air. Others are like that weird squeak your car makes when you hit a bump.
- I want a closed casket funeral. However, towards the end of the service, have the organist play "Pop, goes the Weasel" over & over until everyone stares at the coffin with silent, horrified anticipation. 😬
